"SALEM"

- 30s, white American.
- Served in Marine Corps, specializing in long range recon.
- Tough and able to hold his own in battle, but possessing an irreverent charm that made him not fit for the military. Became a private mercenary.
- Cares deeply about his best friend, Rios, but has become so jaded that saving other lives are not his first priority.
- Will learn by the end of the game that it's important to step up and be a hero, and sometimes that requires sacrifice.

SALEM: You realize you're getting into an unstable mechanical death trap suspended forty storeys above ground during a full-scale military invasion, right?

SALEM: Hostiles up ahead.

SALEM: I am sick of high-rises. Never getting into one again.

SALEM: I don't think we're gonna save the world today.

SALEM: Just taking what we need and then we'll be on our way.

SALEM: Sure, now that you need my help it's time to be nice.

SALEM: Great. I knew you had bad taste in friends.

SALEM: I love the ground. Sweet, beautiful earth.

SALEM: And who doesn't love the zoo?

SALEM: You've got a crappy bedside manner, you know that?

SALEM: Rock 'n' roll! Bring it over here.

SALEM: Semper gumby. Always flexible.
